October 03, 2014

My husband had this video camera for several years and loved it. He reached to turn it off on his helmet during a skydive and it was gone. So I surprised him with another and it was about $50 bucks cheaper than the original with more new features...now that's a deal.

This works great, love the screen on top to keep the debris out. I use the rain chain with this, we got a big down pour and filled up in no time. The spigot works fine. I got a six foot holes to fill my watering pitchers. I have to admit now that I have it I wish I had a more decorative one to go with my rain chain, this is a bit rustic...but it works.

It's okay, but if I stoop over it comes off. Must secure it by wearing using the belt option. The clip is not that tight. Also, the best way that I can figure out of getting the phone out is push the phone up from the hole in the bottom. Very tight fit, maybe it will loosen up over time. It's really not a waste of money, but a bit disappointed.

Perfect

January 27, 2013

Fits my BB9900 perfectly, does not cover the alert flashing indicator and the headset hole is open to listen to music or take a call.

I don't like the charge port is covered which means while charging what would be on vibrate is not audible. Also, it's a tight fit so I have a hard time pulling my phone out without pulling my pants up.

Yes I'll recommend it.

It's Okay

January 27, 2013

My first table like item. I got it because BB is the standard at work. I can sync it up with my BB9900 phone to get emails and calendar stuff. It was cheap $199 for 64G. Connect great to my PC, able to port pictures, .pdf files, music, internet searches and other items

However, small viewer, not many apps available, takes about 1.30 minutes to boot up, it has lots of limitations as far as interacting with apps that came on the device and apps that are downloaded. Word and Excel like apps are limited.

Yes I would recommend if you are not into apps and some of the cool features on a iPod and the others. I think I'll probably get a Samsung later, but this will do for now.
